G W HARRIS DEAD

Mr. George W. Harris died at his home on 11 Main street this morning. He had been ill for several weeks with some kind of stomach trouble.

Mr. Harris was about 60 years of age and was one of the oldest men in this section having resided here before Dothan was even started. For many years he was a member of Dothan Lodge No. 461 and that lodge will take charge of the body for burial in the city cemetery tomorrow.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, Walter, Ed and Walter, and two daughters, Mrs. Leonard, Mrs. H. J. Bontin and Mrs. O. L. W. Harris, who is traveling in California and Nevada, will also be present at the funeral.

CLYDE HELMS DEAD

Clyde Helms, who was run over by a freight train this morning at Waterford, 18 miles west of this city.

The through train ran into the back end of the local doing considerable damage to the engine and cars. It was not thought that any one was hurt.

Further by the smashup occurred where there was a double track on the main line at Waterford. Allow me to say that the wreck without hindrance.

COOPER'S GIVEN BAIL

Col. D. B. Cooper and his son, Robin Cooper, who were convicted of murder in the second degree in Nashville, Tenn. Saturday, were allowed bail by Judge Hays in the sum of $25,000 each. The bond was immediately signed by friends of the Coopers in amount of $1,000,000 and a half dollars. A new trial was asked for at once.

It is probable that these men will never serve out the sentence, although the verdict of this jury seemed to be a unanimous one and should their findings be carried out it would meet with the general approval of the people outside of Tennessee.

WRECK THIS MORNING ON A C L

A through freight ran into a local freight train this morning at Waterford, 18 miles west of this city.

The through train ran into the back end of the local doing considerable damage to the engine and cars. It was not thought that any one was hurt.

Further by the smashup occurred where there was a double track on the main line at Waterford. Allow me to say that the wreck without hindrance.

KILL FELLOW STUDENT

Indianapolis Ind. March 21.—The authorities of White County have learned that fellow students of the White School strung Chas. Stanton by the ankles to a sapling and left him hanging so long that he died a few hours after being taken down.

Several teachers of the White School had been driven away by unruly students. A few days ago a new teacher was employed that was more determined than his predecessors and he whipped the rebellious young men. This infuriated Stanton for then humiliation.

CENSUS REPORT ON COTTON—13,500,000 BALES

New York, March 20.—The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of two points, which was hardly a full response to the higher cables owing to a bearish view of the first section of the census figures showing a crop of 13,408,641 bales including linters.

CALLED OFF THE SHOW

The Pabwin Melville Stock Co. which was booked and a featured act for the Pabwin Theatre Thursday and Friday and Saturday of this week has been called off on account of the serious sickness of one of the actors of the company.

THE WONDERFUL POWER OF WATER

Those who look into the future with prophetic eyes predict that an age of water power is dawning. They point wisely towards the great water power developments already completed or in course of construction all over the world from the rivers of Maine to the canyons of California, from the Kashmir Valley in India to the outlet of the Victoria Nyanza in Africa. And they back up their arguments with the statement that coal will be exhausted early in the next century and that mineral oil and natural gas will vanish with the coal.

And all this prognostication and arguing raises a host of questions about the water power which is to keep us from freezing in the next century, to turn the wheels of industries, to prepare the food and to run our vehicles.

Every stream of running water from the front brook sporting through the farm meadows to the largest rivers is capable of producing more or less power. A hundred years ago when steam power was still in its infancy, water power was quite extensively developed in this country, but the steam engine with cheap fuel and coal fuel quickly supplanted the practical stage and the water wheel was left to rot and rust. Up to a few years ago it was not practical to develop water power because this power had to be utilized on the spot and very naturally the very best waterfalls were located in the wilderness scores of miles away from the supports the railroads and the cities which needed it. But the invention of the electric transmission changed all this and made it possible to transmit this energy for hundreds of miles without serious loss.—Jonas Wilson in Age Herald.

KIDNAPPERS NOT CAUGHT

One day last week two men drove up to a school building in Sharon, Pa. and produced a note from J. P. Whittaker asking the Superintendent to send his son Willie home.

It soon transpired that these men had forged the note for a youth and that they had carried him away. Every effort has been made to capture the kidnappers. A dispatch from Cleveland, Ohio, yesterday says: "After making an attempt to negotiate a settlement for the return of the kidnapped son Willie in a park at Ashtabula, J. P. Whittaker turned to his home in Sharon."

Whittaker was instructed in a letter from the kidnappers to pay $10,000 in the Flitner Park Sunday night. If no detectives were about the kidnappers promised they would deliver the boy safe to the father in a hotel at Ashtabula at 5 o'clock this morning. Whittaker deposited the money as requested but the Ashtabula police learned of the plans to pay the ransom and went to the park. The kidnappers are supposed to have been there for a 10 o'clock the money was intact and not a man had approached the spot.

Whittaker believes that the police to effect a settlement with him last night will frighten the kidnappers and they will not communicate with him again.

A 19 year old school girl in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. who is well grown to her age, thought to play a perfectly ridiculous joke on her professor and poured a glass of water in his chair just before he sat down in it. The joke was good but it rattled the professor so till he jumped up and whipped the 19-year-old girl who was well grown to her age. He whipped her till there was said to be black and blue spots on her and now the girl's dad has made out a case against the professor and wants the law to settle it. (Crossed off) professor who couldn't take an innocent joke like that.

Rev. Ben Pearson of Macon Ga. will preach in the Courthouse to night.

The remains were sent via the Central Ry. this evening to Columbia Ga.

MRS KING DEAD

Mrs. Neil King, aged about 35 years, died in the northern portion of town this morning. Her body will be shipped to Sigma tomorrow for burial.

SPELLING BEE

We are to have an old time spelling bee one night this week, date not set yet. The ladies are to spell against the men and we will know how that will come out.

Mrs. W. R. Deal, of Slocomb is in the city today.

J. H. Adams of Ozark, is here today.

Mr. Frank Slocomb, of Headland was in town this morning.

Your New Suit of Clothes for Spring--and the Place to Buy it!

These are days when "young men's fancies lightly turn to thoughts of"—CLOTHES, and not only young men but grown-ups and men of matude years as well, for to be well dressed is a man's first duty to himself!

NOW AND HERE, you may satisfactorily select in a moment what it has taken us months to prepare, for our stock was never more comprehensive in its array of pattern, fabric, style and price, than at this season.

HIGH ART CLOTHES

the kind we sell, are not "made-in-a-hurry" clothes; unstintingly, time and effort, and brains and experience, have been given to their manufacture, so that every detail is absolutely fact.

You may select as fancy dictates any suit in our large stock—be it novelty or staple—with the certainty that it will give you splendid service and thorough satisfaction.

Starting at $12.50 we show the only kind of clothing that our reputation and prestige will let us show—stylish, snappy, well-made, well-fitting well-wearing—just the kind of clothes you want at prices you will willingly pay!

An Ohio man swapped his wife off for a keg of beer and drank her up. This is a dangerous proceeding, though, for stuff of this kind sometimes goes to one's head and we would rule against the practice.

When another week has passed, and the leaves on the trees have grown, the country will look much more springlike.

MORE ADVICE.

It is one of the saddest things in the world to see a bright young man leave his home and go into the city and remain for a few years, learning city ways, learning how to spend money, and then have to throw down the lat and walk in home, ruined physically, morally and mentally. But we all see it every little while. Expensive habits are easily acquired. As your earning capacity increases, your spending capacity keeps pace.

A railroad official once said that he got along just as well when working on the section, going out at six and coming in at dark, and drawing his dollar a day, as he did when he went to firing at fifty per. When he was running the crack engine on the road, drawing a princely salary, his spending ability had grown, and he was hard run. When he was promoted to a salary of several hundred a month, he still had his hard times, and so it goes.

Once a high roller, always a lover of it, if you can't afford it.

A serious minded editor wrote a serious editorial the other day, admonishing the young men to stay on the farms and villages, instead of going to the towns and cities. This is good advice, if taken, but who ever heard of one taking advice?

The young men from the farms and villages are forced into the towns and cities to fill up the fast thinking ranks in the trade battalions, where dissipation, fast living, fast spending, fast society, are claiming their victims.

To raise good corn, don't plant on the same ground every year. To raise cotton and keep blight out, rotate, and no one will advise planting cane in the same place twice. Rotation is good for the soil, and it is necessary. Rotation is not only good for the business world, but it is absolutely necessary. As they who are now on the job lay it down, fall down, shoot out their brains, or go to the pen or abroad, some other young man must be ready to take the vacancy. Big business houses and corporations are constantly drawing their supply from the farms and villages, where new blood, strong physique, new ideas can be put in and trained for their particular line.

The sad part of it is that the city dweller of this type never returns to his plow. He is a has-been and lives on the past, and his friends.

It is the proper idea to suggest that the good farmers remain on the farms, and we are glad to say that most of them do, but it is necessary that the farms give up enough of their . . . men to keep the gaps filled in and let new blood be infused into the business.

ERRATUM-PAD REFLECTIONS.

If a man wants to acquire the reputation of being a hero these days he should fire his valet and employ an up-to-date press agent.

Sometimes the fairest sort of a man has about as much sense of justice as a bullfrog has knowledge of metaphysics.

Often a man's character can be ventilated by puncturing his ambitions.

Still, some men manage to master themselves under the influence of a club woman.

A good many people have an idea of what they want until they are doubtful of their capacity to get it.

The itch for office has sent many a man tumbling down the ladder of fame.

So many men, so many minds and a lot more besides without any minds at all.

There is no hope for a boy until he learns to be ashamed of his.

There are a large number of people in this world whose only apparent profession is taking up other people's time.

It takes an artist these days to cut out the subject of troubles real and imaginary.

There are some people who are so crazy to be conspicuous that they would be willing to take the place of the corpse at a funeral if they could attract a little more attention thereby.

One of the greatest of all sins is ill humor.

Cowardice is often as much protection of the physique as reflection on the reputation.

Anybody can get rich in experience.

Never lecture a man for being hungry until after you feed him.

Often a dose of heartache is good for an attack of selfishness.

A cheerful, fluent booster who arrives at the psychological moment is an asset to any town.

The girl who can measure up to the looks of her photograph these days is a genius in aesthetics.

When a young woman gets to be the star of a beauty show she doesn't turn the head of anybody else as much as her own.

It looks as if the more shrinkage in the feed the sweller the affair at a luncheon these days.

Those people who are free from error are in the cemetery.

One of the most dangerous characters in any community is the man who practices the art of feeling within the law.

There never was a girl who got any pleasure out of kissing a relative unless he was some distant cousin she never saw anything of.

Some people keep out of trouble by lying low when it comes around, others by lying fluently.

The Garden That I Love.

The Garden that I love is full of Light,
It lies upon the sloping of a hill,
Where Dawn first stirs the curtains
of the Night,
And the breeze whispers when the Noon is still

The garden that I love is full of Peace,
The voices of the vale are faint
and far,
The busy murmur of the highway
cease,
And silently, at evening comes
the Star.

The garden that I love is full of Dreams,
Visions of joy gone by and bliss
that waits,
Beyond the furthest verge of sun
set gleams,
With the wide opening of the Golden Gates

The garden that I love is full of Rest,
God's own fair Acre, where his
dear ones lie
In the safe shelter of the kind
earth's breast,
Waiting His Easter dawning up
the sky

There may I rest asleep with them
awhile,
There may I wake, with them
that glorious Day,
When in the sunlight of the Mus-
ter's smile
Sorrow and sighing shall be swept away

"THEY SAY."

That phrase has blasted the character and wrecked more lives than any other in the language. Call a halt on the lecherous peddler who comes at you with the wares—"They Say."
His point blank at his cowardly heart—"Who says?" That hits the spot. You cannot afford to miss. The person who circulates a scandal or peddles truth (one is just as good as the other) is a vampire. He sucks life-blood.
No combination of words in the language has caused more trouble pain and sorrow. Shadowy—it hides in the dark. It is anonymous.
It has no personality. It cannot suffer any reaction. It is wholly irresponsible. The phrase ought to be put under the ban. It is this way. You speak to some one of a mutual acquaintance. There is a shrug of the shoulders, or a lifting of the eyebrows. Then a lowering of the voice, with the preface "They say." Even when the gossip falls to give his authority he has put an evil idea in your mind respecting the person he speaks of. You cannot rid your self of the suggestion. The impression stays. The suspicion lurks.

A great wrong is done. "They say." The cars that are eager for that always have a mouth to pass it on to other eager ears.
The assassination of character has begun. What "They say" may sometimes be a true message. But is it a necessary message? Will it make the old world the better or the worse for the telling? It is very plain that much suffering and sorrow might be prevented by uttering these ugly words out of the vocabulary. If a man or a woman won't cut them out, you cut them out. And be quick—

Miss Cotton Entertains the O. F. H. Club

Friday afternoon at three o'clock Miss Cotton was at home to the members of the O. F. H. club and a most delightful afternoon was spent with this charming hostess. The club though young is proving that it will be one of the most popular in our little city. At this meeting four new members were present and enrolled their names to the list of young ladies who believe in O. F. H.
The new names are, Messrs.
Toy Frazier, Annie Frazier, Matt
Clendinen, Susan Layfield.

Touday is the vernal equinox
when day and night are of equal length. Unsettled weather may be looked for about this season after which spring weather usually sets in.

The passenger trains on the Central that have been only running to Hartford, will, on Sunday
March, March 29th, and on each Sunday thereafter go on through to Lockhart, as formerly. This will be of much convenience to the traveling public.

HIS DUTY.

The Lady—"Look here; you said that if I'd give you your dinner you'd mow the lawn for me."
The Hobo—"I'd like to do it, ma'am, but I gotta teach you a lesson. Never trust the word of a total stranger."—Cleveland

CURE FOR LOVE

"I remember once," says Professor Grange, "hearing two very ordinary men, a bricklayer and a plumber, discuss love in a smoking car."
"I hold," said the bricklayer,
"that if you are terribly in love
the way to cure yourself is to run away."
"The plumber shook his head and sneered."
"That will cure you," he said
"provided you run away with the girl."—Tatler

NO DOUBT

On one occasion an ignorant quack was called by mistake to attend a council of physicians in a critical case. After considerable discussion, the opinion was expressed by one that the patient was convalescent. "Convalescent!" said the quack, "why I've cured convalescence in twenty four hours."—Sacred Heart Re-

Women Suffer

much needless pain when they delay using Cardui for their female troubles. Cardui has been found to relieve headache, backache, pain in the side and diseases arising from deranged organs. It does more than relieve,—if used persistently,—many have written to say that it cured them.

TAKE CARDUI

It Will Help You

Mrs. Maxwell Johnson, Tampa, Fla., writes: "Cardui cured me after doctors and everything else had failed. I had been suffering with numb spells ever since I was 16 years old. One day I decided to take Cardui. I have now taken 5 bottles and I can say that it has cured me. I advise all suffering women to give Cardui a long and fair trial."

Mrs. Johnson suffered years. Have you? Do you wish to?
But why suffer at all? Take Cardui. Give it a fair trial.
